

UC San Diego Residential Life Community Standards Undergraduate Housing

Introduction

At UC San Diego, living on campus is an integral part of your education and growth as a student. As a result of your community living experience, we hope you will develop a concern and respect for others; make responsible choices and decisions; share your academic, social, and cultural experience with other students; and learn to live peacefully in close quarters with a diverse group of people.

Students living in a group environment affect each other's lives in many ways. We strongly believe that one's actions demonstrate commitment to respecting differences. In addition, we will not accept ignorance, humor, anger, alcohol or substance abuse as an excuse, reason, or rationale for behavior. Certain shared responsibilities such as cooperation, inclusion, and respect are integral to successful group living. It also means accepting personal responsibility for how your everyday actions affect your roommates and neighbors.

Establishing a positive and supportive residential environment means everyone in the community must make occasional adjustments in personal habits, attitudes, and beliefs. Successful on-campus living means exercising your rights while recognizing your responsibilities in respecting the equally legitimate rights of the other members in your community.

In support of a positive and supportive residential environment, we strive to ensure that your health and well-being are our top priorities. We are here to provide any necessary support and resources to aid in your student living and success.

Community Standards

In accordance with the University of California San Diego Housing Contract and UC San Diego Graduate and Family Housing Agreement, every UC San Diego student who lives in or enters our residential communities must comply with the Community Standards and regulations of UC San Diego, including, but not limited to, the UC Policy on Student Conduct and Discipline, UC San Diego Student Conduct Procedures, the UC San Diego ResNet Acceptable Use Policy, all applicable local, state, and federal laws, and the Residential Life Community Standards contained herein.

This document describes residential-area specific standards and is incorporated into the Standards of Conduct within the UC San Diego Student Conduct Procedures. Violations of the Community Standards described below may be referred to the University's student conduct process. Conduct that also violates federal, state, or local laws may also be referred to applicable civil or criminal court processes. The standards in this document apply to undergraduate residential areas only.

These Community Standards are designed to establish a safe and secure living environment and support your success as a UC San Diego student. Any student who anticipates or observes a potential violation of these Community Standards is expected to immediately remove themselves from the environment of the violation. One's presence during any violation of these Community Standards condones, supports, and/or encourages the behavior or potential violations.
